Protester Said Mohammad, a legal secretary in the Ministry of Mines, was injured when he suffered a broken leg after he was hit in the head by a bullet. Police also fired tear gas canisters into the crowd to disperse the protesters, and two protesters were killed when a Molotov was thrown through the window of a government building. In Iraq, demonstrators have largely been protesting against unemployment, corruption and the perceived lack of reform by the current government. About Paper Chase Paper Chase is JURIST's real-time legal news service, powered by a team of 30 law student reporters and editors led by law professor Bernard Hibbitts at the University of Pittsburgh School of Law.
